

Conversation Starter: No Brother of Mine

1. What are your gut feelings about the way society handles sex offenders? Is it uncomfortable to discuss them? To challenge them?
2. How do you think American laws should treat released sex offenders? Should they ever be released?
3. Do you think sex offenders can be rehabilitated? Can people change, with intensive treatment and other interventions?
4. Does civil commitment seem fair to you? Why or why not?
5. What's the balance between protecting public safety and civil liberties? Is there a gray area—or is it black and white?
6. The costs of detaining and treating sex offenders in civil commitment are far higher than incarceration or probation. Is it worth the price?
6. How were you taught to protect yourself from sexual violence?
7. How can we keep people from perpetrating sexual violence?
8. What worries you more—being victimized by sexual violence or by an act of terrorism?
